PHOTO	 The painting depicts a bustling market day in Montataire, Oise. In the background, a large, multi-story building with a central tower, identified as the town hall (La Mairie), stands prominently. The foreground is filled with a large crowd of people, many wearing long, dark coats and hats, engaged in various market activities. There are large piles of goods, including what appears to be wool or raw materials, and a large wooden barrel or basket in the center. The scene is set in an open square or street, with other buildings visible in the distance under a pale sky.
